THE CAMPAIGN IN MANCHURIA.

(1) A VIEW OF TOMUH-CASTLE.

When the Third Division was marching upon Hanching, its advance-guard, under Major-General Oshima Hisanato, encountered the Chinese on the 11th December, 1904, at Tungbotse, south of Tomuh, and after a short skirmish, routed them. The Division encamped that night near Tungbotse opposite the Chinese position.

(i) A VIEW OF THE BATTLEFIELD OF THE THIRD DIVISION AT KANGWASAE.

On receiving warning on the 17th December, 1894, that the Chinese General Sungkiang was advancing upon Haiching at the head of 30,000 men, the Third Division resolved to attack him; and on the 19th of the same month, a decisive battle was fought on the fields here shown. The Japanese, killed and wounded, numbered about 412. The Third Division, after a glorious victory, took Kangwasae at 6 p.m. on that day.
